

The map below illustrates the structure of an airport before and after refurbishing the airport site.

Overall, it can be seen that the infrastructure of the airport site goes under a high rate of changes such that the number of gates has seen a significant increase in number.

First, in the departure area, the location of the cafe and check-in changed such that the check-in took the restaurant after redevelopment. About the arrival part, there was no option in the previous site, but now there are a cafe, ATM, and a car-hire section on the right side of the mentioned area.

In the second part of the airport, just after passport validation matters, some places have been allocated for shopping, and the walking part has been replaced with a Skytrain. Finally, the last change, the number of gates have been increased more than double of what it was in the past.